SUMMER 2011

YLP is an intensive five weeks summer program for Algerian teenagers. It includes one week of intensive English language and orientation instruction followed by a 4 weeks study program in the US.

The goals of this program are:

- To promote mutual understanding between the American and Algerian youth.
- To develop a sense of leadership potential, civic responsibility, and commitment to community development among youth.
- To strengthen English speaking skills
- To foster relationships between Americans and Algerians with a focus on respect for diversity of ethnic, socioeconomic, and religious backgrounds

The program is designed for high school students between the ages of 15 and 17 who:

- Have a demonstrated leadership aptitude and an interest in community service
- Have sufficient proficiency in English to communicate effectively
- Exhibit flexibility, maturity, integrity, good social skills, and open mindedness
- Have the necessary motivation to be both active and successful exchange participants

- Will attend at least one more year of secondary school after the program (e.g will not graduate in summer 2011).

Deadline to receive applications is April 07th, 2011
